

Meet the partners of Hersh Mannis LLP:

Hersh Mannis LLP is a premier boutique family law practice located in Beverly Hills, California. Since its inception, in August of 2000, by founding partners, Joseph Mannis and Neal Raymond Hersh, the firm has maintained a stellar history of success, representing high asset, often high profile individuals. Hersh Mannis' reputation is, and has always been, to achieve the most optimal resolution on behalf of their clients, as expeditiously and discretely as possible.

After nearly 20 years in business, the firm has earned an important seat at the table among a very specialized type of clientele – One who requires fierce protection of not only their personal lives, but also their professional lives and reputations. Hersh Mannis' partners and associates possess advanced certifications and the vast business acumen required to successfully represent clients with complex personal and professional lives and diverse revenue streams.

“Recently, the partners were asked about what it takes to be at the top of their game every day. It came down to three things: knowledge, hard work, and a love of the law.”

Hersh Mannis understands that what is of greatest importance to their clients is that they receive full-service, around the clock attention to their case, and that every nuance and shifting detail is analyzed, with no stone left unturned. This approach has continued to earn them enduring trust among their clients, significant recognition from their peers in the legal community, and a multitude of distinctions from respected media outlets. Partners, Hersh, Mannis and Lipsic were all recognized among the world's leading high net worth advisors in the 2017 and 2018 editions of Chambers High Net Worth Guide. Variety named Hersh Mannis partners Neal Hersh and Joseph Mannis in their coveted 2016 and 2017 Legal Impact Report. The Hollywood Reporter profiled Hersh and Mannis in April of 2017 and 2018 in the publication's Top 50 Power Lawyers issue, for family law cases won among the entertainment elite.

Recently, the partners were asked about what it takes to be at the top of their game every day. It came down to three things: knowledge, hard work, and a love of the law.

“In my 40 plus years of professional practice, I would say that the area of family law requires an attorney with a strong intellect, one who is a good strategist, having both a good legal and mathematical mind. To be successful requires one thinking outside of the box when arriving at solutions. This is why we may prevail on key issues that are of critical importance to our client. And of course, as attorneys, we are always looking for strategies to keep legal costs down wherever and whenever possible regardless of our client's prominence or personal net worth.”

“We know that parental attitudes directly affect children in a divorcing family. Children going through the separation and divorce of their parents very often, if not universally, feel some shock to their equilibrium and their stability. Even children whose parents are long separated, privately long for their parents to get back together and bring things back to normal. The emotional strains of the parents are often shared overtly or covertly with the children.”

“In truth, family law is the most diverse and challenging area of the law and requires an attorney who is particularly adept at building trust, in order to successfully guide clients through contentious and often highly-charged financial and emotional issues. Equally important to a successful resolution of a case, is an extensive knowledge of the law as well as a vast and substantial business acumen. One must be a skilled negotiator to settle issues, and an effective orator in court.”

“Emotions are inextricably intertwined with almost everything we do. In order to be ahead of the curve and anticipate an opponent's legal maneuvering, we are obliged to consider what they are trying to accomplish, why they want to accomplish it and how they would attempt to accomplish it. From a client perspective, managing their emotional reaction to the fact that they are getting divorced as well as the actions taken in the divorce by the opposing party/counsel is paramount.”
